Extensive experience litigating complex class action matters for both plaintiffs and defendants has enhanced Scott Robinson's impressive reputation, as does his Masters in Law from Columbia. But it is Scott's ability to make class actions work that puts him at the heart of many of our most important and prestigious cases.

Prior to joining the firm in 2020, Scott practised class actions, commercial litigation, and international arbitration at a large international firm, as well as class actions at a leading boutique firm in Toronto. While in law school, Scott served as the UN Advocacy Intern for Human Rights Watch in New York City, as well as a judicial law clerk for the UN International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and for the Superior Court of California. Scott also articulated as a judicial law clerk for the Ontario Superior Court of Justice and the Divisional Court
