

Patricia Speight makes precision look easy.

PATRICIA A SPEIGHT

T: 416.413.1986

E: patricia.speight@swslitigation.com

PRACTICE AREAS

Civil Litigation

Class Actions

BAR ADMISSIONS

Ontario (1986)

MEMBERSHIPS

Ontario Bar Association

Canadian Bar Association

EDUCATION

University of Toronto

(B.Sc., M.Sc., Ph.D.) (1965 to 1969)

University of Oxford (1969 to 1971)

University of Guelph (1971 to 1972)

University of Windsor (LL.B) (1984)

A doctorate in physics. A post-doctorate at Oxford. Multiple academic awards and prizes at law school. Medals afterwards. A career at the bar prosecuting many of the renowned cases that established class action jurisprudence in Canada, such as Teletronics, Vitamins, Hepatitis C and Bre-X. These achievements have Dr Speight's name all over them. Because Pat makes precision look easy, success follows her every step of the way.

Patricia was one of the counsel team who have successfully prosecuted some of the most renowned class actions in Canadian history. Cases such as Teletronics (the first to obtain a global class), Vitamins (the first to determine carriage of a class action and one of the first price-fixing class actions), Hepatitis C (recovered over $1 billion for the class from the federal and provincial governments), and Bre-X (the first securities class action in Ontario). She has also prosecuted cases in products liability, price-fixing, securities, foreign exchange charges, criminal rates of interest, mass torts and securities.
